ORDER

Presently before the court is defendant Joseph Zepeda's motion to dismiss or, alternatively, motion for summary judgment. (Doc. # 4). Plaintiff Robert Smith, acting pro se, has not filed a formal response to defendant's motion, but has instead filed an opposition to the petition for removal. (Doc. # 6). Defendant has filed a response to the opposition (doc. # 8) and plaintiff has filed a sur-reply (doc. # 9).

I. Background

Plaintiff is a prisoner currently incarcerated in a federal detention center in California. Plaintiff originally filed a complaint in Nevada state court on May 21, 2013, alleging violations of the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. (Doc. # 1).

The complaint alleges that the defendants,¹ acting in their individual and official capacities, executed a search warrant at plaintiff's home and other locations on May 8, 2009. As a result of the ¹ There is no indication that defendant Gillespie has been served with a summons and copy of the complaint. Although Gillespie is a named defendant, "defendant" will refer only to Zepeda.

1 warrant, the task force seized $73,494.00, 284.9 grams of cocaine, 576 grams of marijuana, 200 pills
2 of MDMA, seven hand guns, two rifles, three vehicles, and one motorcycle.

3 Plaintiff alleges that defendant Zepeda “relinquished” the seized property to defendant
4 Gillespie without a “turn over” order. As a result of the seizure, plaintiff claims his Fourteenth
5 Amendment rights were violated when Zepeda failed to acquire a turnover order prior to releasing
6 the seized property for federal prosecution, as the property was seized under a state search warrant.
7 Plaintiff further alleges his Fourteenth Amendment rights were violated when Zepeda failed to return
8 a search warrant inventory to the court. Next, plaintiff alleges that Zepeda lacked probable cause
9 or a warrant to seize the vehicles, and that the initial warrant did not list the vehicles to be seized.
10 Finally, plaintiff alleges that Gillespie unlawfully instituted a civil forfeiture action regarding the 11 seized currency.

12 Based on the fact that the complaint alleges violations of the Fourth and Fourteenth
13 Amendments to the United States Constitution, defendant Zepeda timely removed to this court.
14 Plaintiff has filed a motion to remand, essentially arguing that he mistakenly included violations of 15 the Fourteenth Amendment in his complaint.

16 II. Legal Standard

17 A court may dismiss a plaintiff's complaint for “failure to state a claim upon which relief can 18 be granted.” FED. R. CIV. P. 12(b)(6). A properly pled complaint must provide “[a] short and plain
19 statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.” FED. R. CIV. P. 8(a)(2); Bell
20 Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 555 (2007). While Rule 8 does not require detailed factual
21 allegations, it demands “more than labels and conclusions” or a “formulaic recitation of the elements
22 of a cause of action.” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. 1937, 1949 (2009) (citation omitted). “Factual
23 allegations must be enough to rise above the speculative level.” Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. Thus,
24 to survive a motion to dismiss, a complaint must contain sufficient factual matter to “state a claim
25 to relief that is plausible on its face.” Iqbal, 129 S.Ct. at 1949 (citation omitted).

26 In Iqbal, the Supreme Court clarified the two-step approach district courts are to apply when 27 considering motions to dismiss. First, the court must accept as true all well-pled factual allegations
28

1 in the complaint; however, legal conclusions are not entitled to the assumption of truth. Id. at 1950.
 2 Mere recitals of the elements of a cause of action, supported only by conclusory statements, do not
 3 suffice. Id. at 1949. Second, the court must consider whether the factual allegations in the complaint
 4 allege a plausible claim for relief. Id. at 1950. A claim is facially plausible when the plaintiff's 5 complaint alleges facts that allows the court to draw a reasonable inference that the defendant is 6 liable for the alleged misconduct. Id. at 1949.

7 Where the complaint does not permit the court to infer more than the mere possibility of 8 misconduct, the complaint has “alleged – but not shown – that the pleader is entitled to relief.” Id.
 9 (internal quotations omitted). When the allegations in a complaint have not crossed the line from 10 conceivable to plausible, plaintiff's claim must be dismissed. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 570.

11 III. Discussion

12 A. Motion to remand

13 Plaintiff asserts that the court is obligated to remand this matter because he “never intended
 14 to invoke the district court’s jurisdiction.” The possibility that he “accidentally” invoked this court’s 15 jurisdiction is irrelevant.

16 “Any civil action brought in a State court of which the district courts of the United States
 17 have original jurisdiction, may be removed by the defendant or the defendants, to the district court
 18 of the United States for the district and division embracing the place where such action is pending.”
 19 28 U.S.C. § 1441(a). “If a civil action includes a claim arising under the Constitution, laws, or 20 treaties of the United States [] and a claim not within the original or supplemental jurisdiction of the 21 district court or a claim that has been made nonremovable by statute, the entire action may be 22 removed if the action would be removable without the inclusion of the claim described in 23 subparagraph (B).” 28 U.S.C. § 1441(c). Federal district courts have “original jurisdiction of all 24 civil actions arising under the Constitution. . .” 28 U.S.C. § 1331.

25 The complaint undoubtedly asserts claims for violations of the Fourteenth Amendment. (See 26 generally, compl., doc. # 1). Indeed, the Nevada Constitution does not contain a fourteenth 27 amendment, so plaintiff’s assertion that he did not intend to invoke the fourteenth amendment of the 28

1 United States Constitution is without merit. Plaintiff's argument that he "only asserted a Fourteenth
2 Amendment violation under state statute in support of his claim for the recovery of property" simply
3 does not make any sense.

4 Accordingly, the court finds that the complaint alleges violations of the United States
5 Constitution. As such, this court has original jurisdiction. 28 U.S.C. § 1331. The court also has 6 supplemental jurisdiction over any ancillary state law claims, to the extent the complaint pleads any.
7 The motion to remand is denied.

8 B. Motion to dismiss

9 Defendant moves to dismiss the complaint on the grounds that the claims are time barred.
10 Nevada's residual state of limitations for personal injury actions is the statute of limitations
11 applicable to § 1983 actions in Nevada. Perez v. Seevers, 869 F.2d 425 (9th Cir. 1989). Federal law
12 determines when a claim accrues for an action brought pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Federal courts
13 apply a forum state's personal injury statute of limitations for § 1983 claims. See Wilson v. Garcia, 14 471 U.S. 261, 276 (1985). A § 1983 claim accrues when the plaintiff knows, or should know, of the 15 injury on which the cause of action is based. Elliott v. City of Union City, 25 F.3d 800 (9th Cir.
16 1994).

17 NRS 11.190(3) provides that an action for "taking, detaining or injuring personal property,
18 including actions for specific recovery thereof. . ." must be brought within three years. Although not
19 entirely clear from the pro se complaint, it appears plaintiff is seeking to re-obtain the seized
20 property via the instant action. As this is the longest statute of limitations that could potentially 21 apply to these facts, the court will give plaintiff the benefit of the doubt in assuming that the most 22 forgiving provision applies.

23 Here, plaintiff was aware of the fact that his residence and other property were searched on 24 May 8, 2009. At most, plaintiff therefore had until May 8, 2012, in which to file this complaint. He 25 failed to do so, instead waiting until May 21, 2013, to file. Accordingly, his claims are barred by the 26 statute of limitations, and the complaint is dismissed.

27 . . .
28

1 IV. Conclusion

2 Despite plaintiff's assertions to the contrary, the complaint clearly pleads claims for federal
3 constitutional violations. As such, this court has jurisdiction and the motion to remand is denied.
4 Because the claims are barred by Nevada's statute of limitations, the complaint must be dismissed.

5 Accordingly,

6 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED, and DECREED that plaintiff's motion to remand
7 (doc. # 6) be, and the same hereby is, DENIED.

8 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that defendants' motion to dismiss or, alternatively, motion for 9 summary judgment (doc. # 4) be, and the same hereby is, GRANTED.

10 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that the clerk shall enter judgment accordingly and close the 11 case.

12 DATED February 11, 2014.
